

Our Mission

Our mission is simple: prepare top quality, short run packaging to allow companies to market their brands quickly and effectively. Our comps can be used for presentations, production standards, focus group testing, sales samples, photo shoots, and T.V. commercials.

About Us:

The Comp24 Group brings together three of the biggest names in the packaging prototype business: Comp24, AdProps and Dennis Curtin Studio. With production facilities in Los Angeles, New York, and Atlanta, we cover the country like never before. But our local roots mean we continue to provide the personalized, high quality service and quick turnaround you expect. Together, the group companies have a century of experience producing packaging prototypes for most of the world's largest makers of consumer products. And combining forces gives us even greater ability to meet the needs of your most demanding jobs.
